Chicago-based J. Córdoba delivers high-velocity club sets fusing hard house, Latin club mutations, and experimental low-end. His sound is percussive, relentless, and built for peak-hour intensity, body-focused and unrestrained.

Artist Bio

J. Córdova is a Chicano DJ and producer originally from Milwaukee, now based in Chicago. His sound draws from Chicago house, early hard house, techno, and bass-driven styles, shaped by Midwest club lineage and an experimental, high-impact approach. His productions fuse driving drums and syncopated rhythms informed by Latin club and dembow. He founded Agua de Rosas in 2018 and is one half of the duo Mecánico.
