Chicago-based J. Córdova delivers high-velocity club sets fusing hard house, Latin club mutations, and experimental low-end. His sound is percussive, relentless, and built for peak-hour intensity, body-focused and unrestrained.

Artist Bio

J. Córdova is a Chicano DJ and producer from Milwaukee, now based in Chicago. His sound draws from hard house, techno, and bass-driven club styles, shaped by Midwest lineage and an experimental, high-impact approach. His productions fuse driving drums and syncopated rhythms informed by Latin Club and Dembow.

In 2025, he released an EP on NAAFI, the influential Mexico City label, further cementing his presence within the global Latin Club underground. His work has also appeared on various artist compilations for labels such as Nehza Records and MUAKK, among others.

He founded Agua de Rosas in 2018 and is one half of the duo Mecánico.
